Necessity of the Caliphate

Since the establishment of the Caliphate in 2014, it was by no surprise that the Arab League Nations have done what they could to delegitimize it by having its sell-out scholars from as far as Al Azhar to Medina to issue Fatawa's to try to dethrone this most necessary Leadership, most if not all leaders of Muslim countries are so cowardly and weak inside, that it has its citizens terrified that the utterance of a single word of opposition would land one in prison being tortured, so the default is to live under oppression and like it, so the Caliphate naturally was a threat to the Arab League, they would rather sit back while the world stomps on Islam, but the announcement of the Caliphate came to change that Forever!!!

No matter where one goes today he is either governed by a Manager, Supervisor, CEO, Mayor, Premier etc..... the list goes on, we are used to someone other than ourselves looking after our best interests, to make sure things generally go smoothly, and when they don't, they are there to make a change on our behalf, or essentially do what is good for us for the most part.

So generally speaking this is not a new concept, and also what is not a new concept is change, when this Leader per say is no longer serving the interests of those he is serving normally its time for change, and in past when the leader failed to step down or leave, the people in turn would revolt or find different means to replace the Leader, as we see in todays world there seems to be a coup every week.

But unfortunately in the Muslim world we have so-called leaders who have secured their foothold leading a country by lineage and established themselves as King, or has had another superpower put them in power, and now that country has to deal with each generation of the Kings family garbage, generation after generation, as we see in Morocco and Lebanon, these are just 2 examples of useless people who's families don't deserve a single gram of kingship, lineage should not be a means solely to take control unless your capable of serving the people justly and ruling by the Sharia completely. In some form of another they announced themselves the Caliph of those countries, generally with the support of Kuffar countries to sweeten the deal, as we seen in history with Britain and France being very much involved in helping and establishing leaders in these Arab nations, and even in todays landscape USA putting the loser in power to run Iraq after it had left Iraq.

So what is a Caliphate?

To put things in complete simple perspective a Caliphate is the Leader of an Islamic State, regardless of the definition you choose he is necessary for the Muslim world and is put their for that reason, to dictate the affairs of the Ummah or State, to protect the Muslims under his rule and abroad and dispatch the army if required if it comes to that, to rule by the book of Allah SWT in all cases, not half Democracy half Sharia, its all or none. His establishment does NOT need to validated by other neighbouring countries nor approved.

Signed foreign policy that was completely against the Muslims for back door cash incentives.

In some cases this is the will of the people and sometimes its not exactly, this is where the voting process comes in, but in some cases its a necessity for the country for a righteous leader to stand up and say that's enough, and take control, like we seen in Syria in 2014 because the people are to fearful to vote the leader out, it was by pure necessity that this Caliphate needed to be announced, not a single Arab country sent its paramilitaries in to help in Iraq or Syria, they never once lifted a finger to help, they got off the hook by writing mealiness letters of condemning Assad's actions, that shows what pathetic worms the are.

Now this sounds like a perfect plan of course, as we had read many times in our Islamic History the perfect system implemented, and the dignity the Ummah had under righteous Caliphs, but unfortunately these self soothing coward leaders whom we have in power today, running so-called Muslim countries would hate this idea, it would make them accountable, challenge their power, they might go back to being average citizens once removed of position!!! So lets look at what the so called Arab League is doing for the Muslims of the world, and why the established(not self proclaimed) Caliphate which still goes on today threatens that power-base, lets see how far we have came since the complete demise of the Ottoman Empire, lets see how much dignity this Ummah has lost, and the fear of Muslims have left the heart of our enemies and what is the Arab League doing about that, so lets look and see.

Arab League list of complacency.

Literally watched Zionists take over Palestine, and attack worshippers in Al Aqsa, plus many other tragedies including West Bank.

Did not do anything to help the war of 1967 in Palestine.

Allowed USA and allies to use Muslim lands to attack Muslims

Adopted Kuffar laws.

Attacked, Killed and imprisoned Shaykhs or anyone who spoke against this behavior's, installing fear into the Muslim under them, rather than gaining respect

Did nothing against China.

Did nothing against Syria

They have done nothing to serve or protect the Muslims in any way other than filing their bellies with greed and selling the religion of Islam for mere pennies.

So we can see from just a few of the hundreds of examples I missed that the Arab League has done nothing for the Muslims in a positive way, introducing a modernist Islam and fashion and a Western way is not success, rather its pure destruction, they have punished those who cry out for them to do something when being bombed by Assad, the Military might should have bombed Assads house to dust in response, rather they kicked him out of the Arab League, but he still continued to kill Sunni Muslims and presently they welcomed him back.

This Arab League had sat back, all 22 so-called Muslim countries with their Military and done absolutly nothing, until one day 1 righteous man did what needed to be done, he like so many of this Ummah was sick of watching Brothers and Sisters getting killed and the League stood back as cowards, he stood up and not only vowed to kill the wrongdoers, he was actually in the process of doing it, Iraq was the last bit of Shia oppression and attack and no response from the Arab world that anyone was going to take, he stood up on the Mimbar in Mosul and did what needed to be done and announced the Caliphate!!! Which had been long overdue.

Uniting under one flag, fighting for the sake of Allah, not just putting words on paper, but fighting against Bashars army, and anything else that got in their way, they had captured so much ground it even astonished the USA how swift the Caliphates army was, but for us Muslims this is not a new story as throughout Islamic history it is shown with the help of Allah and deserving brothers our enemies all but small bugs to be squashed. This swift response sparring nothing in it wake terrified the 22 Arab nations as they had witnessed a response from the Islamic State that they should have taken care of long before, surely every time Muslims were oppressed or killed and those 22 countries should have responded swiftly, not with letters of condemning, but condemning and threats of annihilation with real action.

This growing support eventually made the 22 nations paranoid, especially those bordering Syria and Iraq, they had to quickly put into motion propaganda campaigns to make the people go against the Caliphate, why else would the nations do this?? The Caliphate was winning, the 22 nations should have been thrilled the Caliphates army was destroying Assads army, they should have supported it with weapons and more, but much like the spinless cowards they are, scared and nervous and jealous the people were supporting them more, and actually having the courage to fight the kuffar, it was no surprise they went on a smearing campaign.

The Caliphate was necessary, and legit, it is what the Ummah needs, we don't need more blood sucking lying politicians, we need Allah fearing Leaders willing to stand up to the Kuffar and say we are not going to tolerate this, and make 9/11 look like a fire cracker compared to what is too come. Unfortunate that the entire Ummah did not believe in the Caliphate, eventually so-called Muslims turned their guns on them, along with the kuffar armies and in a combined effort in eliminating the Caliphate. Now its back to oppression, killing Muslims, burning Quran, Westbank invasions while the 22 Nations just sit back, its back to business as usual.

The Caliphate is required, still is and is good for the Ummah, do not listen to the kafirs of the 22 Nations of The Arab League, look how they defended the Ummah, that should tell you who to support.

They are not Khawarij, Takfiris or anything else other than those Muslim willing to push back !!!!
